3.2.1 Number and location of plenary meetings for 2019 and 2020 – discussion and decision

The EDPB SEC prepared an info note on possible number and dates of plenary meetings in 2020. The EDPB members agreed on the need to plan for 2020 the same number of meetings as those planned for 2019 (i.e. 11 Plenary meetings). Further discussions were held on the possibility of having teleconferences, the use of written procedures as well as possibility to convey more often meetings of the SAESG.

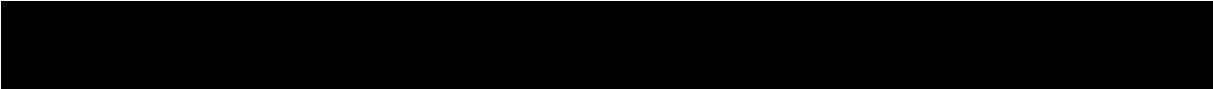

The EDPB SEC informed the EDPB members that when using teleconferences, interpretation is not possible. The EDPB SEC is deploying a videoconferencing system, as agreed by the EDPB members in November 2018. However, it underlined the possible technical challenges to have 100 participants to a videoconference.

Several members informed that some of the proposed meeting dates collide with their national holidays. The EDPB SEC will update the document upon receipt of the information from Members on their national holidays and submit it to a vote by written procedure.

3.2.2 EDPB written report to the LIBE Committee – state of play

The Chair informed that she received an invitation to the Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs Committee (LIBE Committee) for 26 February 2019 to a session on the implementation of the GDPR. The purpose of this session is to obtain information on current state of play of the consistency mechanism and as well as the means and powers of the EU data protection supervisory authorities.

The LIBE Committee asked the EDPB to provide a written document by 18 February 2019 on the full overview of implementation and enforcement of the GDPR, including detailed overview of available means for supervisory authorities [REDACTED]

The EDPB members welcomed the interest of the LIBE Committee. The EDPB members discussed their assessment of the cooperation and consistency mechanisms under the GDPR, with the conclusion that the experience so far is positive, however sometimes challenging because of limited resources and short deadlines. The need to respect procedural duties and fairness further explains the amount of time necessary to handle complaints. The EDPB members emphasized that considerable work has been undertaken in order to streamline the different processes for cooperation. The EDPB members agreed that assessment cannot be comprehensive at this stage because of the relatively limited time and limited experience with some procedures. They also emphasised that the GDPR provides them with a margin of manoeuvre at the operational level, which is appreciated, but requires additional arrangements and agreements to be made among supervisory authorities. Also, this state of play can feed the legislator with feedbacks on the way the text of the GDPR is concretely implemented and interpreted. It can help identifying possible improvements if need be. The expectation is that future experience will lead to further streamlining of processes, if each supervisory authority has the ability to allocate sufficient resources.

The EDPB SEC will finalise the report for the LIBE Committee.

3.2.3 EDPB annual report: Table of content – discussion and decision

According to Art. 71.1 GDPR “the Board shall draw up an annual report”. This report “shall be made public and be transmitted to the European Parliament, to the Council and to the Commission”. Art. 71.2 GDPR stipulates that the report “shall include a review of the practical application of the guidelines, recommendations and best practices referred to in point (I) of Art. 70 (1) GDPR as well as of the binding decisions referred to in Art. 65.” A proposal for a table of content was drawn up by the EDPB SEC and discussed at the SAESG level on 31 January 2019.

After a question from one EDPB member on the language to be used for the content to be provided by the EDPB members, the EDPB SEC confirmed that it has to be provided in English.

The EDPB members unanimously adopted the table of content of the EDPB annual report.

3.2.4 EDPB Staff exchange program – discussion and adoption

The EDPB SEC presented the initiative of the EDPS for the Staff exchange program. The proposal was to start with a pilot secondments programme in 2019 and to have a first edition in 2020. The EDPS HR team and the EDPB SEC held a meeting and a teleconference with HR representatives of the EDPB members to discuss a draft project of the EDPB staff exchange program. They prepared an updated version of the proposal including the results of discussions and the following written feedback. The document will become a joint decision of the EDPB and the EDPS.

The EDPS informed also on the possibility to second a national expert to the EDPS Policy and Consultation Unit in the framework of their own staff exchange program.
